OPEN FOR GENERAL BUSINESS
SATURDAY, the 28th

Saturday Society Review

Monday the Junior League held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Samuel H. Poyer, 274 West Chestnut street. Mrs. Norton Foster presided for the tea which followed the business meeting. Next Monday there will be a special meeting of the Junior League when the Kingston chapter will be visited by the regional director, Mrs. Peter Harris, of Troy. In the morning there will be a meeting of the board of directors at the home of Mrs. Leon Chambers. This will be followed by a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Robert R. Rodie for the directors and Mrs. Harris. In the afternoon at 2:45 o'clock the club will meet with Mrs. Gertrude Brinnier.

The Junior League Children's play committee is making fine progress on their production "Jack and the Beanstalk." Great effort is being made to keep the costumes and scenery as they are pictured in the fairy story known so well to young and old. The scenery has been most delightfully and artistically designed by Miss Helen Sheldon whose great talent for clever scenic effects has made many a Junior League ball the success of the social season. The play will be held in the new Municipal Auditorium at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of May 8. Although the story has always appealed particularly to children, a great treat is in store for adults as well. Tickets may be secured from any Junior League member.

For the benefit of the Junior League towards furnishings for their new clinic room, on Wednesday, April 25, Miss Beulah Phelps will have at her home in Saugerties a showing of summer clothing. The public is invited for any time before 6 p. m. to see these models of colorful and different spring and summer dresses.

This coming Tuesday The Usher Garden Club will hold its second meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, 27 West Chestnut street. At this time the president, Mrs. William A. Warren, will address the meeting on the topic of "Trees."

Next Wednesday evening there will be a special meeting of the Kingston Musical Society at the home of Mrs. Harold Ford, 177 Pearl street. Besides an important business meeting and action of officers, there will be a short musical program. All members are urged to attend and to bring with them any contributions that they may have for the Metropolitan Opera and New York Philharmonic funds.

The Little Gardens Club held its first meeting of the year at the home of Miss Beulah Brewster, 5 St. James Court. There was a full attendance and the group devoted the afternoon to a study of seeds. The second meeting of the year will be held May 4 with Miss Anna DeWitt at her home in Hurley.

Allan Parker Hall of Southport, Conn., spent the past week-end with his mother, Mrs. Charles Mercer Hall, at her home, "Rosemont," Esopus.

Miss Lillian Hastings of Tablequah, Okla., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport at their home in Stone Ridge, left for Washington, D. C., Wednesday, where she will spend the spring with her father, W. W. Hastings, representative in Congress from the state of Oklahoma.

Humperdinck's world famous opera, "Hansel and Gretel," is to be presented Friday afternoon, April 27, at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Kingston Federation of Council of Parent-Teacher Associations. The opera is being produced by the National Music League of New York city. The roles will be interpreted by artists recognized talent, John Guernsey taking the part of Peter; Marion Seale, his wife; Hansel, Louise Bernhardt; Gretel, Cecile Sherman; the witch, Marion Seale; Sandman, Josephine Antoine; dwarfman, Josephine Antoine. Marion Kalemjanian will accompany the actors at the piano. The production will be given in costume with complete setting and staging. As the opportunity to see this opera is one that the association feels should be denied to no child of the city the admission for children of school age has been made so small that it will be nearly impossible, however, to get the audience, to meet expenses through student attendance alone. Therefore there will be a number of low priced patron tickets which will admit two for adults who wish to give their support to this worthy project. Any who are willing to help the production by becoming patrons are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Arthur Russell of Brewster street, Mrs. Stewart Jones of Linderman avenue or Miss Marguerite Cordes of the high school. The performance this coming Friday will begin promptly at 2:45 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Crow and daughter motored to Oneonta this past week-end to visit Mr. Crow's grandmother, Mrs. L. J. Van Hausen, Mrs. Edward Muller, Jr., and children of Stone Ridge accompanied them.

Last evening in return for the many times that they have been entertained by these organizations the members of the high school faculty held a party in honor of the members of the Boys and Girls H-Y organizations of the school. Gathering in the auditorium the students and faculty enjoyed a one act play and program of music. First of all, to break the ice, Miss Laura Bailey led the gathering in ten minutes of singing popular songs. Miss Hulda Boeker accompanied at the piano for these numbers. Then after a brief word of welcome by Dr. Dunn, Miss Ethel M. Hull introduced the one act comedy of young love in which the historic ability of the faculty was a revelation to their guests. Those taking part in the production were Miss Edgar N. Palen, Miss Winifred M. Cuthbert, Mrs. Irving Smith, Clifford Miller, Renaud Fuller, Richard Whitton and Boyd Miller. A women's quartet composed of Miss Laura Bailey, Mrs. John Finerty, Miss Bella Hyman and Miss Helen Johnson together with the male quartet of Henry Dunbar, Roscoe Paul, Samuel Vaughn and William Murray gave a number of selections both as individual groups and together. Miss Agatha Flick played the formal part of the program the audience were invited to the gym where "Mooch Levy's" orchestra was already gathered to give them an evening of dancing. This was interrupted, first, by continuation of the program when four couples of the faculty did an old fashioned quadrille and later by a recess for refreshments. The eight doing the quadrille were Mrs. Irving Smith, Renaud Fuller, Miss Florence Balch, Clifford Miller, Miss Marion Healy, Warren Kias, Miss Margaret Bertrand and Richard Whitton. The women dressed in old fashioned dresses added a truly rural touch to the reproduction. The committee arranging for the party were Miss Ethel M. Hull, chairman, Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Vilma Norwood, Miss Helen Cowles, Richard Whitton and Clifford Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles De La Vergne of Clinton avenue spent the early part of the week in New York city where they stayed at the Hotel Rosemont.

"Century of Fashions" Presents Historical Dresses of County

Wiltwyck Golf Club Sponsors Review of Fashions During Last Century Using Many Original Gowns of Ulster County People—Wedding Dresses to be Featured—Will be Pageant of Styles.

With the entire program planned for the Fashion Review and Dance to be held under the auspices of the Wiltwyck Golf Club this coming Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at the new Municipal Auditorium, it has been decided to make the parade of the wedding dresses, the finale of this very complete showing of period costumes. With this in mind fourteen wedding dresses, from the time of the Civil War to the present, have been collected and will be worn by models as charming as the original owners. These dresses will be displayed in the order of their age, so that the changes in wedding fashions may best be appreciated. The oldest and one of the loveliest of these is a long skirt costume of the early 1860's, a blue taffeta with fine black lace which is being loaned by Mrs. Elchler. Of the period of the early 1870's comes a dress from Mrs. N. D. Murphy, in the bustle style. This gown is to be worn by Miss Elizabeth Murphy, a grand daughter of the original owner, Miss Murphy in presenting this dress will also carry the prayer book which was carried by the bride at the wedding. A third valuable contribution to this review by Mrs. Murphy is an exquisite lace veil given her by Sister M. Aloysia, founder of the Benedictine Hospital. A blue taffeta wedding dress with a hand made lace collar, which belonged to Mrs. Nathaniel Deyo of New Paltz, is being loaned by her daughter, Miss Mary Deyo. As a part of this costume, which was made in 1866, is the original Godey bonnet. A complete costume, including even the jewelry of the period is a gray beaded dress in bustle style, which was worn by Mrs. Thelma Kestor Hurst at her wedding in 1884. Miss Carol Ensign will wear the dress of her great aunt, Mrs. Caroline Burhans. This dress, of the early 1870 period, is a white satin with a tight fitting basque waist and a bustle skirt. The styles of 1875 will be demonstrated by the wedding gown belonging to Mrs. Minnie Ludlum Waters. This is one of the most elaborate of the costumes with a long train. Forty-five yards of material went to the making of this stunning creation. It will be worn by the bride's granddaughter, Miss Granger Stewart. Mrs. Lewen Searle is loaning her mother's wedding dress, a Mrs. Ann Trompbourgh of Kingston. This is a heavy, ivory moire silk, which laces down the back. Mrs. Zadoc Boice's wedding dress of the 1885 period, a green bengaline with puff sleeves and brocade waist, is being loaned by her daughter, Mrs. Clarence O. Fromer. From 1888 comes a yellow wedding dress, with a hand embroidered panel of crystal beads belonging to Mrs. Alice Vignes Stephan. It is being loaned by Mrs. John Sterley. Miss Ellen Noyes will wear a wedding dress of 1895 which is being loaned by her family, while Miss Elizabeth Darrow will wear another dress of the gay nineties, which comes from the Marius Schoonmaker family. The first decade of the present century contributes through Mrs. Edith Matton Hardenburgh of Stone Ridge, a blue satin wedding dress. Mrs. Howard Van Winkle, also of Stone Ridge, contributes a more modern wedding dress, 1922, of the short skirt period, of chiffon and flit lace. Mrs. Cornelius S. Treadwell's wedding dress, 1926, will also demonstrate the now rather amusing, short skirted style.

During the week, fine additions have been made to the collection of dresses, afternoon and evening wear by Mrs. William Lawton, who is loaning an orchid taffeta dress which belonged to her cousin, Mrs. Hardenburgh. Mrs. Winchester Smith, who is giving among a large array an unusual embroidered black velvet, gold silk lined bolero and a carriage parasol of shell silk with a carved ivory handle belonging to Miss Helen Hermance. Miss Helen Clark of Stone Ridge has added several beautiful costumes, of the bodice, long bustle and pannier period. Mrs. Roger Loughran is loaning a dinner dress, which belonged to Elsie Ferguson and a dress of the pre-World War era which is being sent from Georgia. Mrs. Viola Babcock contributes a dress which belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Cornelia Longdenke of Poughkeepsie. From Miss Helen Waterhouse comes an original automobile outfit from the days when continuing for that sport was an art. Two extremely picturesque hats of the 1860's are being loaned by Mrs. Jennie Finch, while there is a dress of the same period which may be remembered by certain of the audience as belonging to Miss Katherine Bruyn Forsyth. One of the most unusual costumes, a quaint wool plaid of the hoop skirt days will be worn by Mrs. Conrad Heiselman. Mrs. Frank Phelps of Saugerties is loaning a reception dress of gray orkade with paisley motifs that was worn by Mrs. Peter B. Myer at a White House reception during President Grant's administration. A green bengaline which belonged to her mother, Mrs. J. K. Merritt, and her own trousseau dress, a green taffeta with a feather cape. All of these will be worn by Miss Beulah Phelps. Mrs. Charles Fogg will wear another reception dress, a medium blue in color, with mitsu to match, that is nearly a hundred years old. In contrast to these modes of other days, and to make the display of dresses complete as a history of American fashions, there will be several of the latest styles of 1934, part of them loaned through the courtesy of Mr. Wetsberg and others secured by Mrs. Loughran in New York. In so far as it is possible both hairdress and shoes of the models will be in keeping with period which they represent. Miss Birmingham of the Mode Beauty Shop will assist with the models' hair, while Mr. Greenwald is fitting to shoes. The models will display their gowns and cos-

Following the program and revue, at the hour of ten, the audience will turn to the gayest part of the evening when they will have the opportunity of dancing to the orchestras of Paul Zucca and Roger Baer, so that the dancing tastes of all may be satisfied. There will be ice cold lemonade for sale and refreshments will be served by a group of high school girls. All arrangements for the dance which will follow the revue are in charge of Jansen Fowler and Henry Osterhoudt. The committee of the evening hopes for a large attendance, since with the fine old barn turned into a club house and the Wiltwyck golf course completed, this project will be a stimulus to business as well as the social life of the community.

One of the most satisfactory features of this revue is the fact that the models are wearing local costumes that were worn by former members of this community. Those who are contributing to the success of this revue, which will mirror a modest history of American fashions, by loaning costumes are Mrs. Alva Staples, Mrs. William Hasbrouck, Mrs. William Lawton, Mrs. John Cole of Hurley, Mrs. Tudor, Mrs. Charles Hardenburgh, Mrs. Lewen Searle, Mrs. Frank Phelps, Mrs. Howard Grinn, Mrs. T. J. Hardenburgh, Mrs. Abram Jansen, Mrs. Jennie Finch, Mrs. Howard Van Winkle, Mrs. William Kingman, Mrs. Charles Fogg, Mrs. Winchester Smith, Mrs. Frederick Warren, Mrs. Wallace Crane, Mrs. Cornelius S. Treadwell, Mrs. M. A. Sloan and Mrs. Corneilus S. Treadwell's wedding dress, 1926, will also demonstrate the now rather amusing, short skirted style.

Only slightly less important than the business of securing the dresses themselves has been the task of securing and training models. This work was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Betz and Miss Elizabeth Terry, co-chairmen, who have secured as models Mrs. Conrad Heiselman, Mrs. James Betts, Mrs. Harold Rakov, Mrs. C. O. Fromer, Miss Isabelle Brinkman, Miss Ann Horzok, Mrs. Robert Horzok, Miss Beulah Phelps, Miss Elizabeth Murphy, Miss Ann O'Meara, Miss Janet Betz, Miss Lenor Wonderly, Mrs. Charles Fogg, Miss Alice Darrow, Mrs. Elizabeth Darrow, Miss Janet Goodsell, Mrs. John L. McKinnon, Miss Harriet T. John, Miss Ellen Noyes, Miss Carol Ensign, Miss Beatrice Burgerin, Miss Mary Cunningham, Miss Margaret Quick, Miss Margaret Searle, Miss Helen Schroeder, Miss Winifred Bruce and Mrs. Roger Loughran.

The committee who are working so diligently under the direction of Mrs. Roger H. Loughran and Miss Mary Treadwell to make this novel revue and dance an outstanding feature of the spring social season are: program, Mrs. Viola Babcock and Mrs. Wilson Norwood; tickets, Mrs. John L. McKinnon and Mrs. Howard T. John; check room, Mrs. H. Wier and Mrs. Lester Elmendorf; refreshments, Mrs. Ernest LeFevre and Miss Nellie Davenport; costumes, Mrs. William Finch and Mrs. Cornelius S. Treadwell; manikins, Miss Elizabeth Betz and Miss Elizabeth Terry; and dance, Jansen Fowler and Henry Osterhoudt.

Spring's Kaleidoscopic Fashions

The Silhouette Makes A Belle of Every Woman

New York—Where the tendency to go in reverse is going to land us is something to think about, for unseasonably things are not what they were in the fashion world. A mild sort of revolution has been going on. One discovers all sorts of in-fashions at work. Among them are some tricky Japanese ones, as for instance, padded rolls at the hem. Hems are always decorated, possibly for bravery since they do wish out a lot and intrude on everyone's territory. After dark of course, during the day, fashion contrives to keep up reasonably straight, but after that, it's every woman for herself. Some go in for cascades from waist to train tip, others for sashes which are really bustles in effect. Others burst into tiers, three or five of them. There just is no telling where it will all end.

A good many of the sensational features, sea-shell and such, launched at the openings, have actually lived beyond their brief day. Even conservative women seem to be cutting loose a bit this spring, wearing relatively daring things out of bounds, wearing the wrong things at the wrong time or something.

Anyway it's a gay and gallant year in which anything may happen and ladies have managed to regain something of their lost glamor. The Oriental touch noticeable, but lightly done, adds to an already strong varied canvas on which one discovers hints of the director, among other things.

There is something for every one and for every occasion, the trick being to find it and wear it well. It does seem as though clothes are worn more important than ever. One must have an air and a figure. Unless you can by fair means or foul acquire a streamline you're just sartorially sunk, that's all. It doesn't do to be too windblown either in a year which offers more than the usual chance to overplay the cards in fashion's new deal.

The lingerie blouse is a highlight of jacket costumes, in organdie, and not usually, with fine tucks and lace trimmings adding to their frothy effect. Valenciennes lace being especially favored.

An evening frock from Martini et Armand is in red taffeta with white dots. It is made with wing-like ruffles over the shoulders, which continue to the waistline at back, covering it and leaving the sides bare. Stiffness also softens the skirt silhouette.

At the left is a dress developed in black organdie, worn with a smart little tailored jacket in double-breasted style, fashioned of white waffle pique. The neckline of the dress is interesting, with the ruche detail repeated at the hemline.

A checked and crinkled organdie dress, in center, has an easily fitted bodice that buttons down the front and the trio of capelets describe a crisp shoulder line, with the ruffles of the skirt also distended.

Imported matisse organdie printed gaily in dots is chosen for the frock at the right, with ruffles at the décolletage and on the skirt, adding to the picturesque effect.

From Paris comes a new type of taffeta for military, emphasizing the wide brimmed or capote style, as well as for smaller models.

For safe and summer evening wear, the long-skirted frock of plain black or navy or brown silk, with sleeveless bodice having a wide, draped neckline and matching belt, makes one of the most practical outfits a woman can have, either in town or at a resort.

For caps are definitely more "crisp" and less "capote" in their new variations. Fingertip lengths are in high favor. The cap which hangs in an almost straight line from fitted shoulders is approved.

Among the position crowns, with which Talbot continues to work is a new one which is thought especially effective. It is of black taffeta, the narrow brim machine-stitched. The crown is higher in back than in front.

Many wedding gowns are of the frothy summery type, developed in such sheer fabrics as mousseline de soie, also an interesting cotton marquisette that has a pleasant crispness. These wedding gowns introduce such features as net, ruffles, ruffle details that provide animation, and taffeta foundations add to their crisp outlines.

Flowers are prominently featured as trimmings for evening gowns, posed at the waistline, at the base of the décolletage, and also at shoulders, sometimes forming slender garlands for shoulder straps.

Shops are playing up taffeta for daytime as well as evening, sponsoring it in jacket costumes and also in separate dresses, with printed and monochrome versions both approved, the latter in navy, black and brown, and the former invariably approving dark backgrounds.

Pleats are stressed for evening, especially in dresses in sheer fabrics, such as net or chiffon, the pleats posed at the back developing from a high hip line, also introduced in sections at back and front.

Sheers And The Crisp Ruffled Silhouette

At left—A crumpled sheer organdie in navy blue is employed for a summer evening gown with a high neckline at front and low back. Ruffles of the fabric give a crisp finish to the top silhouette posed over the shoulders and down the back while the circular flounced fullness from knees to hemline gives a charming movement to the skirt.

Center—The dotted transparency of point d'esprit with its ruffled skirt and capelet is especially suitable for summer evenings, the front of the bodice and the yoke of the capelet has a discreet design in crystal beads for sparkle.

Right—Red and blue lines on white in the pattern of this printed frock give a pastel suggestion of blue and pink. The coat of navy diagonal wools has an interesting treatment of bands of the fabric at the shoulder, the color of the coat repeated in facets of the scarf.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT WILL PREACH SUNDAY

At the Sunday morning service, April 22, the Rev. J. W. Cheney, who has recently been appointed superintendent of the Kingston district of the New York Conference by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, D. D., will assist the pastor, Dr. Fred H. Deming, and preach the sermon at the 11 o'clock service.

Trinity M. E. Church. Dr. Cheney has been pastor of Metropolitan Temple, New York city, Chester Hill Methodist Episcopal Church, Mt. Vernon, and other important churches.

This will be his first visit to his new work. Cordial invitation to all not worshipping elsewhere to hear him. The pastor will preach at the evening service at 7:30.

Ivory Not Beetle In the Panama Canal zone there is a small beetle which borrows into the ivory out, one of Panama's largest exports. These ants are used to make butter. This beetle is no larger than a grain of wheat, but it can penetrate the tough fibers of the ivory, not which is so hard as to turn the edge of a sharp knife.

There Is No Substitute For Prints

New York—A summer wardrobe which does not contain at least one flowered chiffon can't boast of balance. There are days and dates which call for printed dresses. There just doesn't seem to be anything that is just as good, because if we have been inclined to overdo the print idea, it does not mean that we should forego prints. There is really nothing more charming for warm-weather semi-formality, whether it is to be worn in one's own home or elsewhere.

The new prints are new. They have a refreshing and distinctly unusual color scheme. Since much pleating and much ruffling is used, the whole effect is delightfully feminine especially when these frocks are topped with enormous straw hats, the sort of hat which is the right kind to wear for dining out.

If your fancy runs to lace, however, there are plenty of lace dresses to gratify your urge, and some lovely lace hats too which need not necessarily step out with lace alone.

In previous seasons one was inclined to think only of chiffon and crepe in connection with prints, but that's old stuff. Batistes, net, linen, organdie, any number of fabrics are now printed and approved. We look forward to another summer of cotton comforts—all day and all night cottons. All purpose cottons too, even to bathing suits which promise to look like abbreviated dresses again.

No lot of printed fabrics for the year would be complete without more and more mention of cotton, which takes to printing like the proverbial duck to water and also like the duck goes into the water.

Striking Flint to Make Fire The Indians and also the trappers, used a small pile of dried leaves, when such could be found, to catch the spark when striking flint and steel together to make fire. The pioneers, however, knew that it was not always possible to obtain dry leaves when they wanted to light a fire, so they generally carried some sort of tinder box with them which included a bit of scorched linen or charred cloth.

Ewig Completes Case Against Loughran

with the Republican and his vote was recorded as "Yes" for dismissal of that particular charge. The result was announced by the clerk as 16 to 13. Supervisor George of Danbury was on his feet in an instant.

"Mr. Chairman, I think I voted yes on that motion and I would like to vote no," said Mr. George. "I intended to vote no." There was a slight mischievous about the room which gradually broke into a laugh. Mr. George had been reading a paper when the vote was taken and apparently his first knowledge that the vote had not been 100 per cent Democratic was when the clerk read the result 16 to 13. Everyone had become so accustomed to hearing the 17 votes recorded that it did sound strange. Mr. George evidently thought he had made a mistake in voting and was ready to take the blame. After a moment it was revealed that the vote had been properly recorded 16 to 13 and Mr. George asked if he were too late to change his vote. Then someone informed the supervisor from Danbury that he had voted "irregular" but that Mr. Wright of Marlborough had registered the "irregular" vote. Mr. George smiled broadly when he found he had not cast an "irregular" vote.

To the charges in paragraph 14 Mr. Fleming made the same motion as to the others and in addition that the charges were that Mr. Loughran had violated Civil Service rules in the employment of two people and the additional grounds for dismissal in that instance made by Mr. Fleming were that if Civil Service rules had been violated that the Civil Service Law made specific provisions how such violations must be dealt with and that this charge mentioned in paragraph 14 had no part in the present proceeding.

The motions of Mr. Fleming it was agreed applied to the original charges mentioned in the complaint and also to the several amplified bills of particulars provided.

On motion of Supervisor Finch the session was recessed until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Police Asks Information
Then Supervisor Boice of Ulster arose and stated that he had been present at every session thus far. He said he and many others had voted to dismiss the charges against Loughran. Now after several days in session he had heard all of the evidence of the complainant's side of the case and he did not see any use of wasting his time sitting for several more days to hear the answer when he was now convinced that Mr. Loughran had "not done anything so terribly wrong." He said he would make slight errors perhaps, even supervisors at times.

Chairman Markie rapped for order and informed Mr. Boice that there was a motion before the house to adjourn.

Mr. Boice insisted that he was only seeking for information and instruction as to whether it would be necessary for him to continue to attend this time and attend the further sessions in order to cast his vote on the final question. He said he had heard the evidence thus far and he did not now feel the charges had been substantiated and he did not see why it was necessary for him to continue to attend.

"Well, I don't see how you or any other member can intelligently vote if you don't attend," replied Mr. Markie.

Then Supervisor Elsworth of Esopus arose. "This is just such a situation as I predicted," said Mr. Elsworth. At the opening of the case he had objected to Mr. Ewig appearing for the prosecution on the grounds that Mr. Ewig was county attorney and should be able to act as advisor to the board if the board sought legal advice. Now he said a member of the board was seeking advice and counsel and Mr. Ewig was appearing for the complainant and the members of the board had no one to turn to for legal advice.

Mr. Elsworth probably would have had more to say but Supervisor George arose and said, "I second the motion to adjourn," and everyone shouted "Aye," apparently glad to be free from the room after four days of confinement.

The afternoon session was continued at 1 o'clock with Mr. McEntee on the stand. He said that he had gone over his ledger and found that in 1931 there was never an overdraft on the Highway Fund.

Treasurer Signs Report.
He said the books in his office in regard to county highway matters had been audited by a representative of the State Highway Department, that on these books as audited depended to some extent the amount of state money which the county received. In 1931 Mr. McEntee of the department audited the books and made a report. This audit is done at the time the county treasurer is making up his annual report. It was apparently in some doubt together by the auditor and the county treasurer and sworn to the report.

Mr. Fleming offered this annual report of the county treasurer for 1931 which he said contained a whole and complete report on highway work by projects, that it was signed and sworn to by the county treasurer and showed receipts and expenditures. Mr. Fleming showed by the witness called by complainant's counsel that there were certain balances carried over from 1930 in the highway fund and allocated to certain projects which did not appear on the county treasurer's report. This altered the amounts which were available for certain projects. On road 54 it was shown that there was a balance carried over from 1930 which did not appear on the project book and that on December 31, 1931, the project book showed a deficit while with the balance carried over from the year 1930 there existed no such deficit on that road.

Sworn Report Refused.
Mr. Fleming then offered the county treasurer's sworn report and Mr. Ewig objected to it. Mr. Fleming argued that an attempt had been made to show the condition of the highway funds from "that mongrel project book" and he wanted the true and complete condition as shown the county treasurer's annual report which was sworn to and contained all information. Mr. McEntee smilingly said, "don't speak of that book like that," referring to reference of Fleming as a "mongrel" book. Mr. Fleming in answer to the county attorney's objection said that it was evident that the complainant desired to use the figures of "that farcial project book" when he had a complete record here sworn to as being correct by the county treasurer. The vote defeated Mr. Fleming 17 to 13 and the county treasurer's sworn report of the highway fund in 1931 was not allowed.

Going in to the issuing of certificates of indebtedness for 1931 for highway purposes, Mr. Ewig produced four certificates. Mr. McEntee said the certificates were issued when there was still a balance in the fund, the fund was never overdrawn.

Between January 1, 1931, and December 31, 1931, Mr. McEntee said $645,264 had been charged against the Highway Fund. In that time there had been $25,913.29 credited to the fund.

"How much was borrowed on certificates of indebtedness?" asked Ewig.

"$395,000," replied McEntee.

These certificates, he said, had been filed with the county treasurer as follows:

April 21, 1931, certificate for $60,000. At that time there was a credit of about $100,000 in the fund.

September 15, 1931, certificate for $180,000.

December 2, 1931, certificate for $25,000.

December 14, 1931, certificate for $40,000.

Referring to the book, Mr. Ewig asked whether there was not shown an overdraft of $25,554.16 on September 15, before the certificate was filed that date. Also whether there was not an overdraft of $2,739 on December 1, prior to the filing of the $25,000 certificate on December 2, 1931. Mr. McEntee said that was what the book showed.

Then on cross-examination by Mr. Fleming, he said that while the certificates had been filed that date they had been negotiated before that date. The certificates had been filed that date but had been dated and negotiated at the bank prior to the dates shown as being filed in the office of the county treasurer.

The money was available he said on the date the certificates were negotiated at the bank. These dates were March 31, 1931, $60,000, May 11, 1931, $180,000, November 30, 1931, $25,000, and December 14, 1931, $40,000.

"Then these certificates were issued pursuant to authority of the board of supervisors and the money actually borrowed as of the date of the certificate and the time they were negotiated," asked Fleming.

Mr. McEntee said that was true. He said all of the certificates had been paid.

A sample warrant was offered in evidence to show the form and the fact that the chairman of the board and the county superintendent had signed the warrants.

Mr. McEntee said that on his project book he had an item "General Roads" which was a fund against which warrants were drawn to pay certain types of bills such as gasoline, etc., and that later these sums were charged back against the various projects to which the charge should be made.

Mr. Ewig asked why the certificates had been entered in ledger so long after their date and the witness said that the money may have been borrowed for the general fund and transferred to the Highway Fund as needed.

A letter was offered which had been written by Mr. Loughran in 1930 calling attention to the fact that the President of the United States and the Governor of the State had requested that public works projects be continued as long as possible and men kept at work and the letter said that in accordance with this request he was asking that all road projects be continued as long as possible in order to give employment to men and that funds be provided to comply with this request.

Mr. Ewig then read several exhibits which had been placed in the case and after that rested his case.

Lured the Chinese
In the days of the California gold rush everybody was so busy digging for gold that the homeless household chores were neglected. With gold beckoning, no one was willing to work at plain jobs. There was no land cultivation with the East but stage were constantly plying to China. The foreigners acquired the habit of sending their wares to China, getting it back in two or three months. This showed the Chinese that there was a business opportunity in this country.

Missionary Groups Guests of W. C. T. U.

A program of unusual interest was held at St. James Methodist Church Thursday afternoon, April 19, by the Kingston W. C. T. U., who had as their guests members of missionary groups. At the conclusion of the devotional and business session Mrs. George Shultz, president, announced the dates of the spring luncheon at Ellenville as being May 18. Those attending this luncheon will have the rare privilege of hearing Dr. Ella H. Basie, president of the World's W. C. T. U. speak. A most gratifying report on the membership drive was given. Mrs. Shultz said she had gained six new members; so she is entitled to wear the "Cleveland Star" badge.

Robert H. Hawley, accompanied by Mrs. Hawley, sang most impressively "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates." Mrs. Shultz then explained very definitely the connection between temperance and missions. In many countries missions, realizing the appalling need of temperance teaching, have included this in their program. The W. C. T. U. is working in 51 foreign countries. Outstanding work is being done in Korea, India, China, Japan, Syria, Brazil and the city of Mexico. Miss Lucinda Merritt played a piano solo, "The Harp." She sympathetically conveyed the composer's spiritual mood. Mrs. Robert Hurdie played for the hymns.

Then Mrs. Shultz very graciously introduced the Rev. B. R. Branson, pastor of the Clintondale Friends Church, who proved himself to be a constructive thinker as well as a forceful speaker. His topic was "Re-thinking Temperance." "In answering the question, 'What killed prohibition?' I find five points: Huge profits in bootlegging business; repudiation of the principle of prohibition; the power of 'social' prestige; prohibition became the whipping boy for all disgruntled causes and persons; depression—a new source of revenge and the lure of a balanced budget." The Rev. Mr. Branson said the new strategy must be in line with the present day facts and realities, and he suggested the following plan: The state monopoly of the manufacture, distribution and sale of liquor and no profit, with a state managing board. He cited these advantages: No profit; sell to an unstimulated demand (no advertising); local option has a much better chance under this system; we can get the support of thousands of disillusioned people. Mr. Branson also urged the teaching of temperance to young and old in terms of total abstinence; the restoring of the sacredness of the temperance pledge; and the re-capturing of the holy zeal that burned in the hearts of women 60 years ago, the source of which was—love. "This means that we face the future and our new but old job assured that we are not only working for the good of others and for posterity, but for God."

The audience then sang a hymn, after which the closing prayer was made by the Rev. J. B. Steketee.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Referring to the book, Mr. Ewig asked whether there was not shown an overdraft of $25,554.16 on September 15, before the certificate was filed that date. There was no land cultivation with the East but stage were constantly plying to China. The foreigners acquired the habit of sending their wares to China, getting it back in two or three months. This showed the Chinese that there was a business opportunity in this country.

Referring to the book, Mr. Ewig asked whether there was not shown an overdraft of $25,554.16 on September 15, before the certificate was filed that date. Also whether there was not an overdraft of $2,739 on December 1, prior to the filing of the $25,000 certificate on December 2, 1931. Mr. McEntee said that was what the book showed.

Then on cross-examination by Mr. Fleming, he said that while the certificates had been filed that date they had been negotiated before that date. The certificates had been filed that date but had been dated and negotiated at the bank prior to the dates shown as being filed in the office of the county treasurer.

The money was available he said on the date the certificates were negotiated at the bank. These dates were March 31, 1931, $60,000, May 11, 1931, $180,000, November 30, 1931, $25,000, and December 14, 1931, $40,000.

"Then these certificates were issued pursuant to authority of the board of supervisors and the money actually borrowed as of the date of the certificate and the time they were negotiated," asked Fleming.

Mr. McEntee said that was true. He said all of the certificates had been paid.

A sample warrant was offered in evidence to show the form and the fact that the chairman of the board and the county superintendent had signed the warrants.

Mr. McEntee said that on his project book he had an item "General Roads" which was a fund against which warrants were drawn to pay certain types of bills such as gasoline, etc., and that later these sums were charged back against the various projects to which the charge should be made.

Mr. Ewig asked why the certificates had been entered in ledger so long after their date and the witness said that the money may have been borrowed for the general fund and transferred to the Highway Fund as needed.

A letter was offered which had been written by Mr. Loughran in 1930 calling attention to the fact that the President of the United States and the Governor of the State had requested that public works projects be continued as long as possible and men kept at work and the letter said that in accordance with this request he was asking that all road projects be continued as long as possible in order to give employment to men and that funds be provided to comply with this request.

Mr. Ewig then read several exhibits which had been placed in the case and after that rested his case.

Lured the Chinese
In the days of the California gold rush everybody was so busy digging for gold that the homeless household chores were neglected. With gold beckoning, no one was willing to work at plain jobs. There was no land cultivation with the East but stage were constantly plying to China. The foreigners acquired the habit of sending their wares to China, getting it back in two or three months. This showed the Chinese that there was a business opportunity in this country.

Harvard Boys of 1904 F.D.R.'s Guests Today

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Harvard boys of '04—with classmates Franklin D. Roosevelt as host—"took over" the White House today.

At the invitation of the President, Harvard graduates of 10 years ago made a march on the usual June reunions not only in the matter of time but also in having the executive mansion and its extensive green lawns as a meeting place.

The reunion originally was planned for Cambridge. But the President was unable to arrange his multiple duties far enough ahead to insure his attendance. So he asked his former fellow-students to meet him here in Washington and to bring their families.

Enthusiastically they agreed, and preparations were made for 700. Mr. Roosevelt blocked off the entire afternoon on his crowded office calendar as a "Harvard" day with the "boys of 1904."

Mrs. Roosevelt planned to give the entire day to seeing that everybody made the most of the occasion. A big tent on the south lawn gave promise of refreshments. Class headquarters were established at the University Club. James Jackson of Boston served as chairman of the class committee.

More Witnesses

In Van Aken Case

At the opening of court today morning in the Van Aken case, defense attorneys, James H. Prior called to the stand Max Aker, traffic manager for the Van Aken Co., who produced records of the Van Aken Co. showing a number of entries along the route. The district attorney objected as the records were for stations on the main bus line only. The court was withdrawn by Mr. Prior, who said that he had offered it in good faith, since he had said Friday that he would produce all available records.

In rebuttal, Mr. Murray called to the stand Frank Gropper, of Kingston, and Lester Keider of Napa, both of whom swore that Van Aken had not at any time, the night of August 11, in their presence, told Jack Goldstein that he did not know who struck him. Gropper said that Van Aken did say that he did not know who struck him.

Van Aken, it was testified, did not know who struck him. Also that he did not tell Justice Bonomi that he did not know who struck him. Isaac Fitzgerald, who for two years past has conducted a riding academy at Greenfield, near four miles from the place known as the Mickey Mouse, said that he saw Peter Cohen and Moe Rand there during August. He said that he heard a conversation upon one occasion in which Rand had said to parties by the name of Feinberg and McKay that "unless the machine was back by 9 o'clock he would take them for a ride."

Fitzgerald said that he tried to locate the two men referred to but understood they were out of the state. He also told of a conversation which he said took place in the kitchen at the Mickey Mouse, during which Peter Cohen was alleged to have said, "Let's give them the works," to which Rand replied, "Not in here."

Cross-examined by defense counsel Fitzgerald denied that he had been before a justice of the peace with Benjamin Steinhorn, for whom he worked at one time, or that he had stolen a suit of clothes from Steinhorn.

Robert E. Briggs of Greenfield swore that he had seen Peter Cohen at the Windsor Lake House, Greenfield, some time after 11 o'clock on the night of August 11. He said that Cohen drove up, a woman stepped out and talked with him, after which he turned and drove back toward Ellenville in a closed car.

Briggs said that he had seen Van Aken in front of Kass's place about ten minutes before he saw Cohen at Windsor Lake.

Elizabeth Van Aken, wife of George R. Van Aken, was called to the stand. She testified that Moe Rand, one of the defendants, came to the Van Aken house on August 12 and said that he wanted to see Van Aken on very important business.

The people rested.

Mr. Prior called to the stand Lottie Jaffee, bookkeeper at Terrace Hill House last summer, who identified the register used at that time and which she produced. She said that she entered the names of guests who arrived and that most of them were "tickled pink" to have her do so.

Various motions by counsel for the defense for dismissal of the indictments and discharge of the defendants were denied.

Court adjourned to 1 o'clock at which time summations were to be made and the case given to the jury.

Big Store Boys' Shop Approved

The new boys' department at the Rose & Gorman store is meeting with the approval of Kingston's little men, according to an official in charge who said today, "we are glad our new department has taken hold so quickly."

The official explained that the new department would strive to maintain the highest standards in quality of merchandise, and the lowest possible prices. He said all the goods would be backed with the usual Rose & Gorman guarantee.

Much of the credit for the success of the new venture was laid to advertisements appearing in The Freeman by the official, who stated, "Worthy service and merchandise can always be profitably advertised in The Freeman."

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 21 (AP)—There was only a faint reflection of yesterday's stupor in the stock market today, and a general feeling of uncertainty was evident. The market generally was quiet, with a few scattered transactions. The volume of trading was not great, and the price level was somewhat uncertain. The market was generally quiet, with a few scattered transactions. The volume of trading was not great, and the price level was somewhat uncertain.

Speculative interest was somewhat confined to the strength of the Dow Jones industrial average. The market was generally quiet, with a few scattered transactions. The volume of trading was not great, and the price level was somewhat uncertain.

The silver market, however, apparently showed the situation with some vigor. The futures were sold throughout, and the spot metal was pushed down to 45 cents. Grains, on the other hand, were advanced, with wheat up more than 1 cent a bushel. Cotton eased but runner was fairly firm. Bonds were slightly mixed.

Shares of U. S. and Bethlehem Steels improved moderately, and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit added about 2 points to its gain of yesterday. Columbian Carbon advanced 3 and Mullins Manufacturing Preferred jumped 5. The oils were fairly steady, with Plymouth active and a little higher. General Motors and Chrysler were about unchanged, but Auburn dropped another point or so. Union Pacific lost more than a point, and other rails were a bit easier.

Gold mining issues improved, with Homestake advancing 10 points on a small turnover. American Telephone was off a point, but the other utilities were narrow. Schenley and American Commercial Alcohol were down a point each. U. S. Smelting yielded nearly 3 and other silver stocks were hesitant. The aviation group was inclined to sag, probably because of low bids, or unsuccessful bids, on the air mail contracts.

Paradise Revue Attraction

MME. JOAN MONA.

Joan Mona, Russian ballerina who appears as an added attraction with N. T. G's Paradise Club Revue at the Broadway Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is one of the most unusual figures in the American theatre. Mme. Mona came to America as a baby, the daughter of two Russian refugees. Her parents were members of the "White Russian" nobility, adherents of Czar Nicholas, and when the Romanoff regime toppled, they, with countless others, were compelled to flee the country. Her "Russian Dance of Passion" has excited comment from some of America's finest authorities of the dance, and her conception of rhythm shows that dancing is as natural to her as life itself. She is surrounded in the Paradise Club Revue with a chorus of beautiful girls who appear in special numbers with the ballerina.

Cannon Says He Used Estate Money as Own

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., testified today to a District of Columbia jury that he had used money from an estate, of which he was executor, for "personal obligations" and for "campaign purposes" in his effort to defeat Alfred E. Smith for president in 1928.

A little later the Southern Methodist churchman intervened with a "no, no" and a shake of his head when his attorney, Robert H. McNeill, threatened to ask for a mistrial.

This was preceded by a heated argument between opposing counsel during which the word "trickery" was hurled back and forth.

John J. Wilson, the government prosecutor, had been questioning Cannon about the estate of Mary C. Moore. He asked the bishop if he had money from it in his possession at the beginning of the 1928 campaign.

Cannon testified he had some but could not recall the amount. "Did you use it for campaign purposes?" "I kept it in hand and used it as I saw fit," the bishop said.

"Did you exhaust the Moore estate money in your possession for campaign purposes?" "Either for that or for personal obligations," Cannon answered.

"Isn't it a fact that you didn't pay one dollar of that money on the account of the estate during the campaign?" Wilson demanded.

Cannon said he had paid accounts on notes totaling $4,000.

Egg Auction Market Report

During the week 526 cases of eggs were sold on the Mid-Hudson Egg Auction at Poughkeepsie. The volume has been gradually increasing and it is expected to go well above the high point of last spring, when over 700 cases were sold. The prices per dozen varied as follows depending on the grade, weight and reputation of the producers:

White eggs—Large, fancy, 19 1/2c; 25c; Grade A, 18c-25c; producer's grade, 18c. Mediums, fancy, 16 1/2c; 19c; Grade A, 16c-19c. Pullers, Grade A, 13 1/2c-15c.

Brown eggs—Large, Grade A, 15c; 22c. Mediums, Grade A, 15c-16c.

Mussolini Envoy On Way to London Parley

Rome, April 21 (AP)—Premier Mussolini's traveling mouthpiece, foreign under-secretary Fulvio Suvich, left Rome today to lay II Duce's views on disarmament before the governments of Paris and London.

It is understood he will endeavor to convince the British government that its memorandum on disarmament should be scrapped as being impossible of acceptance at this time. The fundamental point of the British Memorandum is that there should be reduction of armaments.

The three-capital trip of Captain Anthony Eden, British disarmament expert, two months ago, was in an effort to "sell" this plan to the governments of France, Italy and Germany.

Germany and Italy did accept it—but only on the condition that France would accept it. France did not.

Now Signor Suvich, acting on orders from Mussolini, will seek to get the British government to accept the Italian memorandum as a basis for discussion. The fundamental point of this memorandum is not reduction but limitation of arms of the heavily armed powers to this present level. The Italian memorandum, as does also the British, permits a certain degree of defensive rearmament of Germany.

Diplomatic circles say that both Germany and France favor the Italian document in preference to the British.

Big Dairy Meeting Planned April 24

Plans are being made for a big crowd at the meeting being arranged by the Farm Bureau dairy committee Tuesday evening, April 24, at which Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, former health commissioner of New York city, will be the principal speaker. C. L. Allen will give a complete report on the proposed AAA dairy production control program and C. C. DuMont, president of the Farm Bureau, will be the chairman of the meeting.

The talk by Dr. Wynne will be of interest to consumers and distributors as well as producers. The public is cordially invited. The meeting will be held in the court room of the county court house in Kingston at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry F. Brown returned to her home on Wednesday from the Benedictine Hospital at Kingston, with a son, Gordon Wilson, born Easter Sunday, April 1. Among Gordon's Sunday afternoon callers were: Simon Lyons, Mrs. Harold Post and daughter, Gloria, of Kingston; Mrs. A. Hall Davis and daughter, Gwen; and Mrs. Oliver Gray and daughter, Olive, Anna, Minnie, Ethel, Beatrice, and son, George. Mrs. John Traver and daughter, Frances, and sons, Vincent and Donald, all of this place.

Mrs. Norman Quick, who has been employed by Harry Brown, has returned to her home.

Two Held In Michigan As Dillinger Aids

Mother and son are held in jail charged with harboring Outlaws and Woman (Continued)—Escaped with Car Bearing Ammunition—One Car Left Behind.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 21 (AP)—Mrs. Isaac Steve and her son, are held in the county jail on charges that they had harbored John Dillinger, Indiana desperado and his henchmen, John Hamilton, Mrs. Steve's brother, at her home here last Tuesday night.

Dillinger, Hamilton and a woman left the city Wednesday morning, officers said.

Mrs. Steve and her son were arrested by five Department of Justice agents, who said that Dillinger, Hamilton and their woman companion came here Tuesday in two automobiles. One of these cars was left behind and was seized by federal officers. The other car, officers said, contained rifles, machine guns and ammunition.

The seized car bore one Tennessee license plate. Charles Campbell, Mrs. Steve's son, told officers, they said, that Dillinger walked with a decided limp and that Hamilton, injured in one shoulder, had difficulty using one arm. Both, the officers quoted Campbell as saying, were heavily armed with rifles and machine guns and had steel vests.

The Department of Justice agents arrived here by airplane yesterday and conferred with Sheriff Willard Welsh. Shortly afterward, accompanied by three deputies, they raided the Steve premises and found the abandoned motorcar in a barn.

Stunt Flying Used To Sell Planes in China

Italian and American Aces Thrill Shanghai Throngs With Hair-raising—Japanese Displeasure Voiced at Action.

Shanghai, April 21 (AP)—Japanese frowns on aircraft purchases by China have gone unheeded by foreign airplane dealers.

Their spectacular selling campaigns, marked by daring aerial tricks over downtown Shanghai, continued unabated today with American and Italian dealers in the forefront.

With the skies as their stage, the airmen stunt while noontime crowds are packing the streets, hoping to impress the public with the prowess of their respective machines.

Lieutenant James H. Doolittle, who demonstrated a high-powered American combat plane, began the practice of using overhead Shanghai as a demonstration ground when in recent months he startled Chinese and foreigners alike with his exploits above the rooftops.

This famous American speed flier sold dozens of the planes he showed. The Italian ace, Major Mario De Bernardi, now in China demonstrating an Italian pursuit plane, set new standards of daring today. Flying a brilliant red plane, he looped, rolled and twisted in hair-raising maneuvers barely over the downtown buildings.

Italians are offering American aircraft dealers their stiffest competition, and today's stunting started millions of Chinese talking about the capabilities of Italian machines.

Frank Hawks, whose feats in the air have made him as well known in some parts of China as he is in the United States, also has participated in the Shanghai demonstrations.

Cheops, the Great Pyramid

The ten giant pyramids comprising the celebrated Egyptian graveyard include Cheops, only 74 feet lower than the Washington monument and Chephren, 270 feet shorter than the Woolworth building. The labor of hundreds of thousands was required for the work. Cheops, the great pyramid, alone required an army of 100,000 men working during the flood season of the Nile, three months each year, over a stretch of 30 years. No modern construction project can parallel this. The thought of it is staggering—2,300,000 blocks of solid stone, each weighing about two and one-half tons, cut and joined and placed into position by hand like a close-fitting puzzle.

A very simple and lovely home wedding occurred on Friday afternoon, April 20, at 4 o'clock at the MacFadden home, 252 Main street, when Miss Dorothy Elberta MacFadden, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert F. MacFadden, became the bride of Clifford Louis Karachan of Port Washington, L. I.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seelye, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom and a few close friends. Mrs. Ella O. Eltinge, organist of the Fair Street Reformed Church, played before the ceremony and the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the bride party entered the living room. The ceremony was performed in front of the fire place in the background, the mantel being banked with pink and white snapdragons and ferns, tall palms flanking the sides of the fireplace.

The bride, who was very lovely in a simple white gown of silk crepe, wearing a coronet and carrying gardenias and ferns, was given in marriage by her father, Miss June Seelye MacFadden, who as maid of honor wore a gown of rose colored silk crepe, with coronet, and carried pink and white snapdragons and ferns. The best man was Douglas Couser of Monticello.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, a fine collation was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Karachan left for a honeymoon trip to Bermuda. On their return they will make their home in Port Washington, where a furnished house awaits them.

There were guests present from Poughkeepsie, Montgomery and Philadelphia.

The bride, one of Kingston's accomplished daughters, was a graduate of Kingston High School and of Southern College, Petersburg, Virginia. Mr. Karachan is an aviation pilot. Both young people will take with them to their new home the best wishes of many friends in Kingston.

Silver Legislation Demanded for Session

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Mandatory legislation this session to improve the status of silver was demanded today by members of the Senate silver bloc at a conference with President Roosevelt which was expected to bring a final word from the Chief Executive on this controversial issue.

The conference also was attended by Secretary Morgenthau, who told reporters as he entered the White House that if foreign markets had the price for American gold this government stood ready to sell.

For the first time since the gold control monetary program was established by President Roosevelt, the price abroad today reached a higher level than the figure fixed by this government for the metal.

Local Death Record

Alexander Lockwood died suddenly at Fish Creek in the town of Saugerties on Thursday in his 81st year. HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBERT COOPER

HOLLYWOOD—Miss Clark, who gets more than average attention in the chapter spaces, soon is asked to play for true love in Hollywood, but admits that the town's gossiping proclivities are, in a sense, a blessing in disguise.

For if affection goes unscarred through the difficulties that beset every morose romance (this is Mae looking for the silver lining) the parties concerned can be pretty sure that they have the genuine article and that a marriage will last.

'We Are in Love'

Miss Clark refrains as much as possible from discussing her own romance, but will admit that "we are in love—we have many important things to do and decide before we can consider the most important of all—marriage—and that's just how it stands."

This is offered, perhaps, as a heads up for her generations on Hollywood romance.

"In Hollywood," she says, "gossips insist upon cataloging you. At all times, to fit their card index system, one must be in one of four states—engaged, married, divorced or mysteriously lonely."

"Then, after you're cataloged, you must conduct yourself accordingly or it makes another bit of gossip. They neglect a fifth category, which would allow us to be just like other people—playing along and wondering what's going to happen next."

It's A Problem

The difficulties of romance when the two principals work at different times, as actors do, one being free for play when the other needs rest, also considers obvious. But gossip nevertheless circumscribes the activities of an engaged actor or actress who is on vacation. Taking trips alone, going out with friends, any number of reasonable things a man or woman might do, all start reports of a rift.

"It makes one feel more 'tied down' than if one were married," laughs Mae, a little ruefully.

Withal, Mae's sense of humor shines through.

"At that," she says with a mock sigh, "I don't suppose Hollywood is as bad as a really small town. And the classic lovers of action and history all had greater problems. Hollywood at least doesn't have family feuds to complicate things—no Montagues and Capulets!"

Dodgers Shutout Phillies, Piling On Pace As Leonard, Koenecke Star

When the Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies met in the first game of the season at the Polo Grounds, the Dodgers were the favorites. The Phillies were the underdogs. The Dodgers were the team that had won the National League pennant last year. The Phillies were the team that had finished last in the National League last year.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

In a few million words more of the major league baseball season have closed. We can offer the following brief observations as a recapitulation of the season as a whole.

1. The Giants possibly over-trained have not been clicking in anything like their 1933 championship form. They may have trouble keeping even close to the leaders during the early months of the season, unless Gus Mancuso stages a startling recovery in health and the pitching staff rallies, including the renowned Carl Owen Hubbell.

2. The Yankees look to have plenty of robust resources to give the champion Senators a battle in the American League. Old Man Ruth may again fool the boys who counted him out and hunk up his spikes for him last winter.

3. The Cleveland Indians, back in their old home grounds, look the part of a real contender with a better chance of moving up the scale than either the heavily hallowed Boston Red Sox or Detroit Tigers.

4. Lefty Grove seems likely to be of no value to the Red Sox for at least a month, thereby deflating the Boston boom for the time being.

5. The Chicago Cubs are coming along fast and will be the team for them all to beat in the National League. They have the power.

Marty Is The Catch:
Marty McManus is the answer to just what the Braves needed to bolster their spirits after the accident to Rabbit Maranville in an exhibition game.

As our Mr. Will King of Boston has pointed out, Marty not only is a popular favorite in Boston, where they think he was treated a bit brusquely by the Red Sox in being ousted from the managership, but he is still a smart, hard-hitting ball player.

There is only one Maranville but McManus is nine years younger than the Rabbit and capable of giving a good account of himself, besides aiding Manager McKechnie in executing the strategy of the Braves. Marty has a life-time batting mark of .290 for 14 years in the big show. Most of his career has been spent in the American League but that's no handicap. In fact the livelier ball may give McManus a new lease on hitting life.

Sunshine For Stengel
My scouts inform me that several factors, mostly those of necessity, combined to bolster the sagging fortunes of the Brooklyn Dodgers and bring a few smiles to the face of the earnest Mr. Casey Stengel.

It seems that Hack Wilson's prospective come-back can be traced to the final dawning of knowledge that unless he produces this year he is through as a major leaguer. For several seasons Mr. Wilson has had his viewpoint distorted by the fact he was paid as high as $33,000 for one season with the Cubs after hitting 56 home runs. Hack quibbled, argued and sulked as the inevitable deflation continued. Now he is battling for a job, which makes a difference.

Similarly, the talk that he might be traded seemed to inspire a come-back by Tony Cucinello, the robust second-baseman, and Sam Leslie, the first baseman, is toiling with much greater gusto as a result of the challenge of a semi-pro "find," Long John McCarthy.

There is a saying among the camp followers: "Once a Dodger always a Dodger"—but there now seems no season to abandon all hope in Flatbush.

Gold Should Give Rodriguez Lots Of Opposition Tuesday

One of the fights on the American Legion boxing card at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Tuesday night, April 24, offering lots of dynamite will be that between Willie Gold, New York slugger, and Tony Rodriguez, Spanish featherweight from Port Ewen and Kingston.

Tony has been training diligently at the American Legion building for his scrap and looks to be in real fighting trim, ready to go the limit in punching his way to a win over the tough little New Yorker who has met some of the best in the featherweight class.

The Kid from Spain has impressed the Legionnaires present at his drills with the way he socks the heavy bag, displaying lots of dynamite in his punches, the variety that bobs in, over if they are not in shape to take it and still continue to stay in there, throwing leather. "That boy sure can hit," said one old soldier watching Tony the other day, "and I think that boy Gold will have to be more than good to beat him."

Beat Mike Bellosie
The Legionnaire, evidently a man who fails to keep track of his pugilists, made the remark close to Rodriguez, who gave him the "low down" on the boy Dec Studer has paired him with for the show on the 24th. "I'll have to hit hard to do anything to Willie Gold," said Tony. "He should give me lots of trouble, and if I win I shall consider the victory something to talk about. Gold does lots of fighting around New York. Don't you remember, he outpointed Mike Bellosie, the boy who fought a draw with Pete Hayes of Saugerties. Both of these fellows are in the featherweight tournament under the supervision of the State Athletic Commission which is looking for a successor to Kid Chocolate as champion. And he knocked out Jerry Mazza, another good boy, at the Garden in five rounds."

Reason for Tony's strenuous training is evident. He sure should have trouble with a boy who beat the Legionnaire, evidently a man who fails to keep track of his pugilists, made the remark close to Rodriguez, who gave him the "low down" on the boy Dec Studer has paired him with for the show on the 24th. Tuneup For Schryvers Against Kaslich A. C. On Sunday Afternoon

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 the Schryver All Stars, representing Kingston in the semi-pro ranks this year, will tune up against the Kaslich A. C. at the Kingston Fair Grounds in preparation for the opening of their season on April 29.

Expectations are that there will be a large turnout of fans on hand for the drill tomorrow, weather permitting, in which the lumbermen hope to show their right to carry the flag into battle as the leaders of this city's baseball warriors.

Latest announcements are that Ted Fraleigh and Bill Finger, Saugerties players, will definitely play with Schryvers. They will be on hand tomorrow, Fraleigh being listed with the pitchers Walt Black and Big Ed Wilson to do mound duty. Jon Hoffman will catch.

The rest of the lineup includes Carpenter, 1b; Davitt, 2b; L. Bruhn, 3b; Bill Finger, ss; Charley Lay, Pres Knight and Charles Tiano, outfielders.

Opponents of the Schryvers in the season's inaugural, April 29, will be the Hamilton A. C. of Brooklyn.

BILLIARDS

Friday night at Nick's in the round robin, Stan Wojcik outpointed Freddie Manthaber, city champion, 130-86. High runs were Wojcik 28, Manthaber 18.

Tonight Bob Murphy and Dick Williams play in the junior tournament.

SEVENTH WARD DEMS WILL HOLD PRACTICE SUNDAY

Practice for the baseball team of the Seventh Ward Democratic Club will be held at Block Park, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Major League Basketball For Kingston Is Morgenweck's Plan

Professional basketball of the major league variety is in store for Kingston followers of the court game the coming fall and winter, according to an announcement made last evening by P. J. Berger, local representative of Frank Morgenweck, who will handle the managerial reins. A franchise in the American Professional Basketball League has been secured from President John J. O'Brien, who heads the pro leagues.

The team will play under the sponsorship of Kingston Post, American Legion, and will be known as "The Kingston Legionnaires." The Post, at a meeting last evening at the Memorial Building, accepted the proposition and application to stage the weekly home games at the Municipal Auditorium will be made to the proper authorities.

Kingston has always been a real big league basketball city and enthusiasm will greet the announcement that once again the best in the pro ranks will cavort for the amusement of local fans. The representatives of the Colonial City will step into the league now constituting two teams from Brooklyn, the Brooklyn Jewels and Brooklyn Visitation, Newark, Camden, Trenton, Philadelphia, Spas and Union City.

The league roster of players included all those well known to local fans and also quite a number of newcomers who have made their mark in pro ranks since Kingston last saw professional basketball. Notably in this last category is the team from St. John's College, known as "The Wonder Team." They play under the name of the Brooklyn Jewels and won the championship of the league during the past season.

"Morgie" the Old Master. With Frank Morgenweck coming here to manage the team, it is conceded that in at least one respect, Kingston will start out after the league championship with one advantage—the managerial angle. Frank Morgenweck has undoubtedly the best knowledge of the inside of the professional basketball game of anybody in the sport today. He has rounded out about thirty-five years of experience both as a player and a manager. His Kingston teams of years gone by were famous for their ability, color and sportsmanship wherever the court game flourishes. Not only in the east is Manager Morgenweck known but from New England through the middle west was the Kingston quintet well and favorably known. "Morgie" as he is known to local fandom and as "Pop" to the players, has ground out a knowledge of the game not from books and others but from the hard school of experience. He has justly been called "The John McGraw of Basketball." His uncanny ability to pick talent and then develop it has been recognized as the true sign of his managerial talent.

Builder of Champions
In outlining his plans for basketball here, Manager Morgenweck says "I really intended to quit the basketball courts for good. In fact, I have not been active for a couple of years but I became so sick and tired of trying to keep a team together, the members of which play with you one night and against you the next, I decided to quit. But I always did say that if it were possible for me to go to Kingston, live there and bring a squad of youngsters that would also live there, it would be my ambition to show the world that real basketball teams are developed and not just stuck together. Back in 1910, with Heinie Heuschel and John Piniro as my veterans, we developed Tome, Frankel and Curlette. They all lived there and what this team did is history. In 1921 with Charlie Powers and Nick Harvey as my vets, we brought Benny Borgman, the two Husta brothers, Carl and Mickey, Artus and Knoblauch along to make a champion outfit. Of course, Knobbie, Benny and George had had some semi-pro experience which was a good break.

Drinking-horns, hunting-horns, powder-horns, ink-horns, horn-lanterns and horn-books were among the articles in use in those days. Their names explain them all, with perhaps the exception of horn-books. These consisted of thin strips of wood upon which were painted the letters of the alphabet, numerals, and sometimes the Lord's Prayer. A very thin sheet of transparent horn kept them clean, and when learning their lessons from them children held these horn-books by wooden handles.

Gallo-Roman Women Used Rouge, Old Tomb Reveals
Gallo-Roman women 1,500 years ago used perfumes to make themselves attractive, and in all probability had an equivalent for rouge and talcum powder. Judging by relics discovered in an ancient cemetery, dating back to 325 A. D., the year when the Nicene creed was formulated.

Remains of this Gallo-Roman cemetery were discovered seven feet underground by workmen constructing a sewer, writes a correspondent in the New York Times. They unearthed a stone sarcophagus containing a leaden coffin, measuring 7 feet 3 inches. This coffin held no bones, and it is presumed that this particular tomb had been violated centuries ago.

However, the discovery of four bottles, intended to contain perfumes, toilet water, probably rouge and powder, proves conclusively that the body of a woman occupied this sarcophagus. Within it was also a small greenish vase which Gallo-Romans used for carrying pinks. Such toilet articles, according to historians, were common in Gallia-Belgica about the Third and Fourth centuries, and were usually buried with their feminine owners. These bottles were of diverse forms and sizes: the biggest was five inches high, one was hexagonal, with a handle; the others, cylindrical but more handles.

Unearthed Roman Ruins
Since 1911 Italian archeologists have been unearthing imposing Roman ruins at the site of the ancient city of Lepcis Magna on the coast of Africa, near the Italian colony to Tripoli. The ruins were in its glory during the reign of the Roman Emperor Lucius Septimius Severus, who was born at Lepcis Magna in 193 A. D. The best part of the beautiful buildings, Severus was a Roman thrice from many other claimants by superior generalship and by political strategy. He had learned Latin as a foreign language and won his African ascent. In the last years of his reign he went to Britain where he died. His native city, Lepcis Magna, is considered the most important of all Roman ruins in Africa.

Johnny Goodman
Johnny Goodman, the golfing world—except himself—has been beating Bobby Jones at Pebble Beach five years ago, how he cleaned up everything in his path along the sectional championship trail only to miss by narrow margins in the big shows, and how he finally broke through to win the national open last year is history almost as familiar to American golfers as the exploits of the great Mr. Jones himself.

His friends say Johnny will go down in golf history as the only player who had to win the national open to get on the Walker cup team. Goodman will have a better chance to play winning golf on the Walker cup team and in the British amateur than many people realize. North Shore, his victory ground in the national open, is built something like St. Andrews.

Daddy With a Putter.
Johnny plays a low shot most of the time with a pitch and run around the greens, almost the exact duplicate of England's best shoemakers but with probably a lot more accuracy.

On the greens he is deadly, with an almost uncanny ability of dropping putts from almost any distance. No player is quite certain when he has won a hole from the "wham ditty" greens from Omaha. At North Shore he missed many a shot from tee to green, only to erase his mistakes with spectacular pitches and putts.

Since his victory in the open, Johnny has subordinated golf to his bread-winning job of selling insurance. Except for a 72-hole "world's championship" match which he lost two down, to Dewey Photo, Britain's open champion, at Miami, Fla., last December, Johnny hasn't played much golf all winter.

But word is out that he is right near the top of his game.

WITH THE WALKER CUPPERS—Goodman

"Horatio Alger Boy" of Golf Ready to "Wham-Dittie" Britishers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles on the careers and personalities of the eight members of America's 1934 Walker cup team which meets the British at St. Andrews May 11-12.

Chicago (P)—England learned its "hotcha" from American jazz bands, but it'll learn about "wham ditty" from Omaha's John Goodman.

Johnny's going over to England at last with the American Walker cup team. For once, he's going to the golfing wars in style, with his favorite war cry, "wham ditty," all oiled up and ready for action.

Where the little giant-killer from Omaha's wrong side of the tracks ever picked up "wham ditty," no one knows, but it's his good luck charm.

As he stampeded through the big field to win the national open championship of the United States last June at North Shore with a record-tying 287, Johnny swanned and cowed the ball and "wham ditty" par into submission.
